Rahco Rubber Seals a New Relationship with ARPM

INDIANAPOLIS - The Association for Rubber Products Manufacturers (ARPM) is pleased to announce that Rahco Rubber has recently joined the association.

Founded nearly 50 years ago by William Anton, this Des Plaines, IL based manufacturer is an ISO 9001:2008 certified, family-owned and operated precision rubber molder, engineered sealing solutions provider, and customer polymer formulator. Their expertise is in low waste flash-less molding.

“Rahco Rubber is vertically integrated,” said Jack Anton, Vice President of Sales and Marketing. “We can create or enhance a polymeric formulation, compound it, mold it, and conduct secondary or assembly operations. We approach opportunities with a VAVE (Value Added-Value Engineering) mindset that allows us to drive-in performance and drive-out poor quality while improving economics.”

Rahco Rubber is taking both an open and somewhat aggressive approach to their new membership with ARPM. They plan on utilizing the benefits of belonging to ARPM in all areas of their business.

“Like most things in life the more you put into something the more you’ll get out of it,” Anton said. “We will participate in the association and give all we can in order to develop relationships and networking partners. Ultimately, we at Rahco Rubber believe that by doing so, our growth opportunities will increase. Our thought process is that we can help to make our industry as a whole stronger, develop mutually beneficial networking opportunities, learn from other industry experts, and take advantage of ARPM’s many resources.”
